This class provides an introduction to immigration, conceptualizing this phenomenon as a social and economic process, as well as a human experience that is simultaneously liberating and limiting. Using the US as a case study, we will explore ideas about race and class, processes of assimilation and resistance, the construction of cultural boundaries, and the development of the modern nation-state. The course advances a critical perspective by questioning current debates about immigration in the United States.

ART 298-10 Photography as Contemporary Art, CRN 48798 (4 credits) (HU) TH, 1:10 - 4:00 p.m.
"Photography as Contemporary Art" is a history of photography in an in-situ class, at the LUAG Teaching Collection Visual Laboratories and Integrated Open Storage classroom. The course will explore the power of photographs as a dominant 21st Century universal visual art form, emphasizing Latino and Latin American photography. The students will progressively work their way through today's explosive array of digital, one channel video, photobase and conceptual discourses of our remix culture through evolutionary image-making of the 20th and 19th Century, and the uses of photographic processes that have enriched our perceptions and our world. Readings, group discussions and individual research. The course will conclude with a final project/paper: a one figure or theme paper and a small group/team project (to be determined later). This will constitute the transformative approach to study the state of photography today. SPAN 397- The City and the Country in Spanish American Narrative, CRN 46367 (4 credits) (HU) M/W, 11:10 - 12:25 p.m.
Across the history of the region defined as Latin America, urbanization, on the one hand, and the isolation of national interiors, on the other, have contributed to a problematic relationship between the city and the country. In examining works by the likes of Roberto Arlt, José Donoso, and Mario Bellatin, among others, this course examines the dialogue between the ostensibly separate environs of city and country, and questions they ways in which they influence one another. MLL department permission required.
